Catherine et André Hug gallery is keeping up her "american dream" exploration and extends summer with the exhibition "Pacific" showing Will Adler and Morgan Maassen photography's.

Will Adler is a 30 year old west coast photographer known for his distinctive take on the surf world. Adler's laid back, light infused images, convey the spirit and atmosphere of place as much as the action of the sport and have earned him a cult following in surfing and photography circles. , Adler shows pictures from California shot for himself and for magazines such as Juxtapoz, Neon, Surfer, WAX, and The New Yorker. For his exhibition at the gallery Catherine and André Hug Adler has invited a friend to exhibit with him, Morgan Maassen a young photographer and filmmaker from Santa Barbara.. Both of them take a more laid-back approach in this series of atmospheric seascapes that focus on sensual pleasure, not athletic feats. Showing their prints unmounted and unframed helps them to evoke a casual, idyllic summer mood of cloudless skies, uncrowded beaches, and liquid blue.
